ESMERALDA (she/her)

Majors:

Psychology and Spanish

Hobbies:

Watching dog videos, reading, writing, watching films, painting, cooking and dancing

Why I became a consultant:

As a first-generation college student, I understand the challenges and fears that may arise when working in an environment or subject you are not entirely familiar with. Something that helped me confront these challenges was building and creating connections among peers, staff, and resources within the school that understood these feelings. As a new consultant, I hope to support, understand, and guide you in your writing process. Writing can sometimes feel intimidating and lonesome, but please know you do not have to go through that process alone!

Languages Spoken:

English and Spanish

Video Introduction

MICHELLE (she/her)

Major/Minor:

Art History / Art Studio minor.

Hobbies:

Embroidery, reading, drawing, and playing video games.

Why I became a consultant:

Throughout my time here at HSU, I've always gravitated towards jobs that let me help other students do the best they can and to find a place of community. I was very excited to receive this opportunity with the Writing Studio to help you with your own writing process! Everyone writes differently through their own process and I hope to create a supportive learning environment for you. I look forward to working with you and supporting you on your academic journey!

Languages Spoken:

English and (basic) German.

Video Introduction

ADAM (he/his)

Major: Graduate Student in Kinesiology

Hobbies:

Running, Animating, Eating, Doing Science ~~~

Why I became a consultant:

As a science major, it has taken me a long time to appreciate that writing is one of the biggest joys that we can give to ourselves and others. It is both a way to share our experiences as well as connect to larger communities. With that being said, writing is not very intuitive -- sometimes it is even quite scary. However, I think that the best way to improve as a writer is to write with others. As a new writing consultant, I feel privileged to share this space with you. My hope is that I can provide some sort of guidance for your writing related needs. I am excited to work with you! (:

Languages Spoken:

English

Video Introduction

YOLANDA (she/her)

Major/Minor: English (Teaching) / Ethnic American Literature

Hobbies:

Crocheting, running, reading, writing, cuddling with my cat and dog while watching a movie :)

Why I became a consultant:

I became a Writing Consultant to create a safe space for other students of color. It can be difficult navigating through college as a first-generation student and I want to ensure that students feel comfortable asking for help. I also like reminding students that asking questions at any point in the writing process is welcome, even if it starts with just working our way through the writing prompt!

Languages Spoken:

English and Spanish

NAY (she/her)

Major: Geology

Hobbies:

walking on the beach and picking up different rocks and pieces of driftwood, cooking, spoken word poetry, running, art, and camping.

Why I became a consultant:

I realized that writing is an essential part of our everyday life. After obtaining my bachelor's degree, I would like to go to graduate school and work towards getting my Ph.d. in something science related. Writing is going to play a big role in my future career path. I would like to help others enjoy the craft of writing as much as I do and shed some light on the significance of it!

Languages Spoken:

English and Spanish

Video Introduction

EMILY (she/they)

Major/Minor:

International Studies/Ethnic Studies and Spanish

Hobbies: Painting, reading, playing music, spinning poi, and romping around in the trees!

Why I became a consultant:

I have a passion for writing that was nurtured by some of the role models in my life and I wouldn't be where I am today without that support and inspiration. Due to that, I am so happy to have found a way to share that experience with others through the Writing Studio! I'm looking forward to creating an inclusive, equitable, and supportive learning environment for us to work together on our writing.

Languages Spoken:

English and conversation in Spanish

Video Introduction

CARLEY (she/her)

Major/Minor:

English Writing Practices major Philosophy minor

Hobbies:

Reading, running, yoga, making YouTube videos, being outdoors, listening to music.

Why I became a consultant:

I became a consultant because I want to help others communicate effectively. Writing has helped me to communicate with others and myself, and I would like to help others allow writing to benefit their communication. I am grateful for the clarity and self-discovery I've found (and continuously find) through writing. I look forward to working with you!

Languages Spoken:

English and conversational French

Video Introduction

ALLISON (she/her)

Major:

Graduate Student in Applied English

Hobbies:

Playing video games, gardening, taking pictures of plants, watching YouTube for hours, petting dogs.

Why I became a consultant:

I already love talking to people about their project topics and helping them generate exciting ideas - why not get paid for it?
